

Message

From: Jordan, Julie [Jordan.Julie@epa.gov]
Sent: 5/27/2014 6:28:28 PM
To: LEE, LILY [LEE.LILY@EPA.GOV]
Subject: RE: [CPEO-MEF] RADIATION, REUSE: "Former Contractors Claim Hunters Point [San Francisco, CA] Cleanup is Botched"

If I see anything else about your site, I'll forward. That military forum has quite a few articles about cleanup sites each week.

Julie Jordan
Federal Facilities Coordinator
US Environmental Protection Agency, Region 9
75 Hawthorne Street (ENF-4)
San Francisco, CA 94105
(415) 947-4207

-----Original Message-----

From: LEE, LILY
Sent: Tuesday, May 27, 2014 11:04 AM
To: Jordan, Julie
Subject: RE: [CPEO-MEF] RADIATION, REUSE: "Former Contractors Claim Hunters Point [San Francisco, CA] Cleanup is Botched"

Dear Julie,

Thank you for sending this. I have heard that NRC has been investigating the claims. I hope to learn more soon.

-----Original Message-----

From: Jordan, Julie
Sent: Tuesday, May 27, 2014 10:31 AM
To: LEE, LILY
Subject: FW: [CPEO-MEF] RADIATION, REUSE: "Former Contractors Claim Hunters Point [San Francisco, CA] Cleanup is Botched"

FYI

Julie Jordan
Federal Facilities Coordinator
US Environmental Protection Agency, Region 9
75 Hawthorne Street (ENF-4)
San Francisco, CA 94105
(415) 947-4207

-----Original Message-----

From: Lenny Siegel [mailto:lsiegel@cpeo.org]
Sent: Thursday, May 22, 2014 9:21 AM
To: Military Environmental Forum
Subject: [CPEO-MEF] RADIATION, REUSE: "Former Contractors Claim Hunters Point [San Francisco, CA] Cleanup is Botched"

Former Contractors Claim Hunters Point Cleanup is Botched High-level technicians claim they documented numerous violations that put public health and safety at risk

By Vicky Nguyen, Liz Wagner and Felipe Escamilla| NBC Bay Area (CA) May 21, 2014

Taxpayers have spent nearly a quarter of a billion dollars on the toxic cleanup of Hunters Point, a prime piece of land along the southeastern shore of San Francisco. The former naval shipyard, which was once used as a research and testing lab for nuclear weapons, is now undergoing a renaissance. The city plans to turn the 800-acre site into a development mecca complete with new parks, retail stores and homes.

It is a massive project that's decades in the making, but two high-level former technicians with intimate knowledge of the remediation effort say the cleanup is being botched and that the health and safety of the public is at risk because of it. Both say they wouldn't live in or even visit the development planned for the site. In February, the Investigative Unit exposed that current workers also question the radiological cleanup of Hunters Point.

"It's playing Russian Roulette with the health and wellbeing of the general public, the people that handle it, and the environment," said Bert Bowers, a former radiation safety officer hired by Tetra Tech, the Navy contractor overseeing the cleanup of Hunters Point. He was tasked with maintaining compliance with federal mandates relevant to radiation protection and the management of radioactive materials.

...

For the entire story, see
<http://www.nbcbayarea.com/investigations/Formers-Contractors-Claim-Hunters-Point-Cleanup-is-Botched-259871511.html>

--

Lenny Siegel
Executive Director, Center for Public Environmental Oversight a project of the Pacific Studies Center
278-A Hope St., Mountain View, CA 94041
Voice: 650/961-8918 or 650/969-1545
Fax: 650/961-8918
<lsiegel@cpeo.org>
<http://www.cpeo.org>